Environmental Policy

Mercuri believes that business development needs to be sustainable environmentally as well as economically. Mercuri focuses on environmental issues in all parts of its business.

Customers increasingly make consumer decisions based on the producer's environmental credentials. Presenting a comprehensive and credible environmental policy therefore also impacts business success.

Mercuri recognizes environmental management as a corporate priority and as a key determinant to sustainable development; Mercuri is committed to establishing policies, programs and practices of its business in an environmentally sound manner.

As a knowledge-based consultancy company, Mercuri already has a low environmental impact through the nature of its activities, as compared to an industry-based company that inevitably impacts the environment through its activities. Mercuri nonetheless seeks to minimize its negative effect on the environment through varied actions. These include encouraging employees to travel by train rather than car or airplane, to use online/phone conference tools to avoid unnecessary travel, the installation of recycling bins that minimize waste, and educating employees to perform business in an environmentally sound manner.

Furthermore, Mercuri is committed to a continuous improvement of corporate policies, programs, and environmental performances, taking into account technical developments, scientific understanding, client needs and community expectations, with legal regulations as a starting point; and to apply the same environmental criteria internationally.
